The Future of Deaf Graduates

Ryan belongs to the deaf students who have been making strides in the field of education. He is one of the students who has graduated from the Department of Education (DEA) at the University of the Philippines, Baguio. Ryan is a product of the Special Education Program (SEP) and has been working with deaf children from a young age. He is currently working as a special education teacher at a school for the deaf in Baguio.

Ryan's success story is not just limited to his academic achievements. He is also an active member of the deaf community and is involved in various community activities. He is a member of the Philippine Federation of the Deaf (PFD) and is an advocate for the rights of people with disabilities. Ryan's passion for education and his commitment to the deaf community have been instrumental in shaping his future.

Ryan's story is a testament to the fact that with hard work, dedication, and support, anyone can achieve their dreams. He is an inspiration to all those who are working towards a better future for people with disabilities.