Goal:

In October 2003 representatives of Apple Computer, NTID and Cornell met on the Cornell campus to discuss possible areas of collaboration that might be possible in the general areas of employment, disability, and technology. It was determined after that meeting, that a second meeting should be held in Rochester to continue the discussions.

This meeting has been structured to include representatives of various sections of NTID, Cornell, Syracuse University, and Apple Computer. The plan is simple, the group will convene from 10-Noon on the 23rd to give each attendee an opportunity to give a 5 minute overview of their work and interests (no PowerPoints!). Hopefully there will be discussion and common ground will be found. Lunch will be provided by NTID. From 1-2:30pm sub groups (see list below) will meet to future discuss the possibility of collaboration. The entire group will reconvene at 2:30pm to determine what if any future work will occur.
